Re: PS Docket No. 07-114

Ms. Dortch,

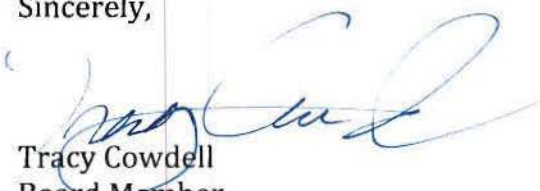

I am writing to thank the FCC for its continued work on 9-1-1 location accuracy and to express my concerns about a recent proposal made by the wireless phone companies.

I strongly encourage the FCC to reject any proposal, such as this, which wouldn't address indoor location accuracy requirements. This latest proposal by the wireless companies is designed to maintain their bottom line and delay what little action they proposed for years. I hope the Commission, as I do, will find this proposal unacceptable, and move forward with the FCC's original proposal.

Canyons School District, for which I am an elected Board Member, has over 40 schools. All of these schools are large and have dozens and sometimes hundreds of rooms. The health and safety of our students, faculty and staff is of paramount importance to me. Locating 9-1-1 callers who, for some reason, cannot speak over the phone would go a long way to making our schools safer.

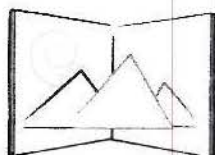

Please recognize this latest proposal for what it is: a blatant attempt to delay real indoor location accuracy requirements that include FCC oversight and regulations. I strongly encourage you to stay the course on the rule which the Commission has already proposed.

Sincerely,

Tracy Cowdell
Board Member
